OLD MAN DAD

Rolls Into Maysville and Presents Daughter's Marriage.

Carlisle, Ky., July 17.—Leaving a note saying that she was to be married, Miss Sarah Frederick of this city left for Maysville to wed a young man of that city. Her father, John Frederick, learning she had gone, took the first train and arrived there in time to prevent the license being issued. Frederick brought his daughter home with him.

Mrs. Frank Harting and little daughter, Jane, are visiting Mrs. William Harting and other relatives in Lexington.

USED SUSPENDERS

To Hang Himself—Body of William Grigsby Found Hanging from a Tree Near Bethany.

William Grigsby, aged about 65 years disappeared from his boarding house, the home of John Andrew Bryant, Saturday night. Yesterday his body was found suspended from a tree, between the Bethany Church and the Bryant home.

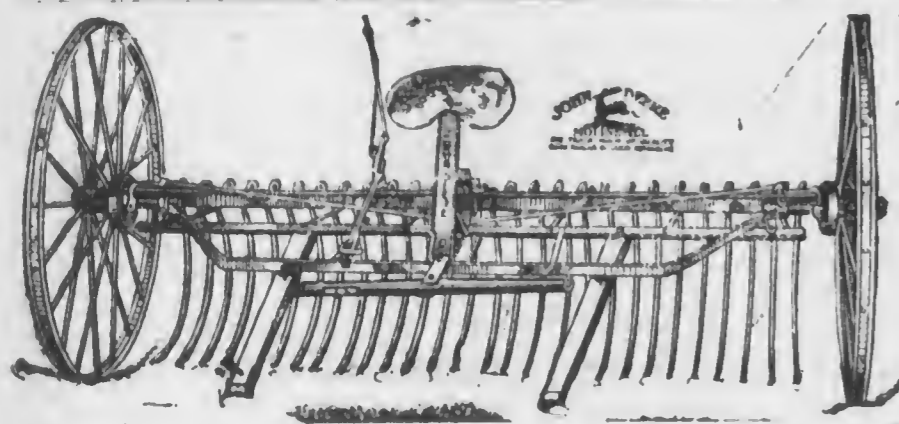

He had used his suspenders to hang himself.

Deceased leaves our brother, Ralibit Grigsby and one sister, Mrs. R. Teager of Black Oak bottom.

MISS GARDNER HERE

Yesterday and Is Looking After the General Organization of Educational Work.

Miss Lydia E. Gardner, County School Superintendent of Nicholas County, was the guest of Miss Jessie O. Yancey yesterday. Miss Gardner is organizing the Trustees of the various counties, so they will be familiar with their work. With our increased per capita and the systematic organization of cities, towns and rural districts, Kentucky will surely forge to the front, and much of the advancement is due to just such women as Miss Gardner.

John Deere's Self-Dump Sulky Rake

The First Consideration Has Been Simplicity and Durability!

DURABLE

Axle studs are 1 1/4 inches in diameter, and are reversible and interchangeable, which doubles their life.

Dump rods are of high carbon steel, 3/4 of an inch in diameter. They have four times the durability of the ordinary dump rod, as they are reversible individually, interchangeable and again reversible.

SIMPLICITY

We can rightfully boast that our rake has fewer parts than any rake on the market. Simplicity of construction and proper material, systematically and symmetrically distributed, mean much to users.

TRIUMPH FOR WILSON

London Press Comments Upon Resignation of Huerta.

London.—Gen. Huerta's resignation of the provisional presidency of Mexico is regarded as a victory for President Wilson's policy and is welcomed by the British public and in official circles here as a possible solution of the Mexican problem. A peaceful end of the complex situation is greatly desired here on account of the large British financial interests in the country.

Most of the London newspapers, however, express little hope as to whether conditions will be better under Venustiano Carranza than when Gen. Huerta was in power in Mexico City.

The Pall Mall Gazette points out that if Francisco Carranza, the new Provisional President, surrenders to Gen. Carranza, as he is expected to do, "it may soon be possible to exact reparation from Gen. Villa for the murder at Juarez of William S. Benton, the Scottish rancher."

The Evening Standard says: "The Washington Administration has won a diplomatic victory. President Wilson has been persistent and patient in his policy of nonrecognition of Gen. Huerta, but it is likely enough he will be met now by other obstacles just as hard to surmount as was Gen. Huerta's obstinacy."

Mr. John D. Wood is domiciled in his new home on William street.

Miss Mattie Stagg leaves today for Goddard where she will visit her mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Stagg.

Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Pyles of the county left Friday morning for a week-end visit in Cincinnati and suburbs.

Miss Anna B. Peers returned home last evening from a few weeks' visit in Ashland. She was accompanied home by her aunt, Mrs. William Peers and Master Robert Peers, the latter's grand son.

WILL WED TOMORROW

Miss Cecile Clair Dunbar Formerly of This City To Become the Wife of Mr. C. H. Hutchens at Indianapolis.

Miss Cecile Clair Dunbar, a native and former resident of Maysville, and a granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roe Stevens of Commerce street is to be united in marriage tomorrow at Indianapolis, Ind., to Mr. C. H. Hutchens.

Mr. and Mrs. Stevens and other relatives of the bride here are in receipt of the following invitation: Mr. and Mrs. James Dunbar request the honor of your presence at the marriage of their daughter Cecile Clair to

Charles Herbert Hutchens on the afternoon of Sunday, nineteenth of July one thousand nine hundred fourteen at three-thirty o'clock 1518 Sheldon street Indianapolis, Ind. At home after September first 1518 Sheldon street

DARING ATTEMPT AT STEALING CHICKENS.

Yesterday afternoon, when Mrs. W. W. Hall on East Second street went to feed her chickens she was somewhat surprised to see a well-dressed stranger reaching in the coop to take some of her springers.

The stranger took one glance, looked over his shoulder, and disappeared in the willows.

On one day this week their coop was relieved of several chickens and the person evidently seemed to know where to look for good chickens.

Mrs. Hall has removed her chickens to a safer place and will tie a bull dog under the coop.

CHAPTER XIX.

The Hollow of Her Hand.

When Booth called in the afternoon at Sara's apartment, he was met by the news that she was quite ill and could see no one—not even him. The doctor had been summoned during the night and had returned in the morning, to find that she had a very high temperature. The doctor could not enlighten Booth further than this, except to add that a nurse was coming in to take charge of Mrs. Wrاندall, more for the purpose of watching her symptoms than for anything else, he believed. At least, so the doctor had said.

Two days passed before the distressed young man could get any definite news concerning her condition. He unconsciously began to think of it as a malady, not a mere illness, due of course to a remark Carroll had dropped when Sara had told him the whole truth of the tragedy and of her own vindictive plans. It was Carroll himself who gave a definite report of Sara. He met the lawyer coming away from the apartment when he called to inquire.

"She isn't out of her head, or anything like that," said Carroll uneasily, "but she's in a bad way, Booth. I'll tell you what I think is troubling her more than anything else. Down in her heart she realizes that Hetty Castleton has got to be brought face to face with the Wrاندalls."

"The deuce you say!"

"Today I saw her for the first time. Almost immediately she asked me if I thought the Wrاندalls would treat Hetty fairly if they ever found out the truth about her. I said I thought they would. I didn't have the heart to tell her that her grievance undoubtedly would be shifted from Hetty to her, and that they wouldn't be likely to forgive her for the stand she'd taken. She doesn't seem to care, however, what the Wrاندalls think of her. By the way, have you any influence over Hetty Castleton?"

"I wish I were sure that I had," said Booth.

"Do you think she would come if you sent her a cablegram?"

"I am going over."

"She will have your letter in a couple of days, according to Sara, who seems to have a very faithful correspondence in the person of that maid. I shudder to think of the cable tolls in the past few months! I sometimes wonder if the maid suspects anything more than a loving interest in Miss Castleton. What I was about to suggest is this: Couldn't you cable her on Friday saying that Sara is very ill? This is Tuesday."

"I will cable, of course, but Sara must not know that I've done it."

"Can you come to my office tomorrow afternoon?"

"Yes. Tomorrow night I shall go over to Philadelphia, to be gone till Friday. I hope it will not be necessary for me to stay longer. You never can tell about these operations."

"I trust everything will go well, Randolph."

"A few things of note transpired in the afternoon on Friday."

The Wrاندalls arrived from Europe, without the recalcitrant colonel, Mr. Redmond Wrاندall, who met them the dock, heaved a sigh of relief.

"He will be over on the Lusitania," said Leslie, who for no reason he knew to himself wore a troubled look.

Mr. Wrاندall's face fell. "I hope so," he said, much to the indignation of the other.

"Will you please step into the drawing-room, Miss Wrاندall," said Watson, returning. He led her across the small foyer and threw open a door. She passed into the room beyond.

Then he turned to the boy who stood beside the hall seat, making change for a quarter as he approached.

"Here," he said, handing him the receipt book and a dime, "that's for you." He dropped the quarter into his own pocket, where it mingled with coins that were strangers to it up to that instant, and imperiously closed the door behind the boy who failed to say "thank you." Every man to his trade!

There was a woman in the drawing-room when Vivian entered, standing well over against the windows with her back to the light. The visitor stopped short in surprise. She had expected to find her sister-in-law in bed, attended by a politely superior person in pure white.

"Why, Sara," she began, "I am so glad to see you are up and—"

The other woman came forward. "But I am not Sara, Miss Wrاندall," she said, in a well-remembered voice. "How do you do?"

Vivian found herself looking into the face of Hetty Castleton. Instantly she extended her hand.

"This is a surprise!" she exclaimed. "When did you return? Leslie told me your plans were quite settled when he saw you in Lucerne. Oh, I see! Of course! How stupid of me. Sara sent for you."

"She has been quite ill," said Hetty, non-committally. "We got in yesterday. I thought my place was here, naturally."

"Naturally," repeated Vivian, in a detached sort of way. "How is she today? May I see her?"

"She is very much better. In fact, she is sitting up in her room. A warm flush suffused her face, a shy smile appeared in her eyes. "She is receiving two gentlemen visitors, to be perfectly honest, Miss Wrاندall, her lawyer, Mr. Carroll, and—Mr. Booth."

They were seated side by side on the uncomfortable Louis Seize divan in the middle of the room.

"Perhaps she won't care to see me, after an audience so fatiguing," said Miss Wrاندall sweetly. "And so exasperating," she added, with a smile.

Hetty looked her perplexity.

the motor that whirled them across town.

"By the way, my dear," he said to his wife, a trifle irrelevantly, "don't you think it would be right for you and Vivian to drop in this afternoon and see Sara? Just to let her know that she isn't without—"

"It's out of the question, Redmond," said his wife, a shocked expression in her face as much as to say that he must be quite out of his head to suggest such a thing. "We shall be dreadfully busy for several days, unpacking and—well, doing all sorts of necessary things."

"She is pretty sick, I hear," mumbled he.

"Isn't she got a nurse?" demanded his wife.

"I merely offered the suggestion in order—"

"Well, we'll see her next week. Any other news?"

"Mr. Booth, Brandon's mother, was operated on for something or other day before yesterday."

"Oh, dear! The poor thing! Where?"

"Philadelphia, of course."

"I wonder if—let me see, Leslie, isn't there a good train to Philadelphia at four o'clock? I could go—"

"Really, my dear," said her husband sharply.

"You forget how busy we are, mother," said Vivian, without a smile.

"Nonsense!" said Mrs. Wrاندall, in considerable confusion. "Was it a serious operation, Redmond?"

"They cut a bone out of her nose, that's all. Brandon says her heart is weak. They were afraid of the ether. She's all right, Carroll says."

"Goodness!" cried Mrs. Wrاندall. One might have suspected a note of disappointment in her voice.

"I shall go up to see Sara this afternoon," said Vivian calmly. "What's the number of her new apartment?"

"You have been up to see her, of course," said Mrs. Wrاندall acidly.

He fidgeted. "I didn't hear of her illness until yesterday."

"I'll go up with you, Viv," said Leslie.

"No, you won't," said his sister flatly. "I'm going to apologize to her for something I said to Brandon Booth. You needn't tag along, Les."

At half-past five in the afternoon, the Wrاندall limousine stopped in front of the tall apartment building near the park, a footman jerked open the door, and Miss Wrاندall stepped out. At the same moment a telegraph messenger boy paused on the sidewalk to compute the artistic but puzzling numerals on the imposing grilles of the building.

Miss Wrاندall had herself announced by the obsequious doorman, and stood by in patience to wait for the absurd rule of the house to be carried out. "No one could get in without being announced from below," said the doorman.

"I can get in all right, all right," said the messenger boy, "I got a telegram for Leidy."

"Go to the rear!" exclaimed the doorman, with some energy.

While Miss Wrاندall waited in Sara's reception hall on the tenth floor, the messenger, having traversed a more devious route, arrived with his message.

Watson took the envelope and told him to wait. Five minutes passed. Miss Wrاندall grew very uncomfortable under the persistent though complimentary gaze of the street urehla.

He stared at her, wide-eyed and admiring, his tribute to the glorious. She stared back occasionally, narrow-eyed and reproving, her tribute to the grotesque.

"Will you please step into the drawing-room, Miss Wrاندall," said Watson, returning. He led her across the small foyer and threw open a door. She passed into the room beyond.

Then he turned to the boy who stood beside the hall seat, making change for a quarter as he approached.

"She is very much better. In fact, she is sitting up in her room. A warm flush suffused her face, a shy smile appeared in her eyes. "She is receiving two gentlemen visitors, to be perfectly honest, Miss Wrاندall, her lawyer, Mr. Carroll, and—Mr. Booth."

They were seated side by side on the uncomfortable Louis Seize divan in the middle of the room.

"Perhaps she won't care to see me, after an audience so fatiguing," said Miss Wrاندall sweetly. "And so exasperating," she added, with a smile.

Hetty looked her perplexity.

"But she will see you, Miss Wrاندall—if you don't mind waiting. It is a business conference they're having."

An ironic gleam appeared in the corner of Vivian's eye. "Oh," she said, and waited.

At once the tall American girl was impressed by the wistful, almost humble look in the Englishwoman's eyes, an appealing look that caused her to wonder not a little. Like a flash she jumped at an obvious conclusion, and almost caught her breath. This girl loved Booth and was losing him! Vivian exulted for a moment and then, with an impulse she could not quite catalogue, laid her hand on the other's slim fingers, and murmured somewhat hazily: "Never mind, never mind!"

"Oh, you must wait," cried Hetty, not at all in touch with the other's mood. "Sara expects to see you. The men will be out in a few minutes."

"I think I will run in tomorrow morning," said Vivian hastily. She arose almost immediately and again wasn't very clear about it himself. Then Hetty broke down and cried, confessing that she was eager to go to Mrs. Wrاندall, at the same time sobbing out something about a symbolic chicken-bird, much to Mr. Carroll's wonder and perplexity.

He sent the maid from the room, and retired with Miss Castleton to the innermost of his private offices, where without much preamble he informed her that he knew everything. Moreover, Mr. Booth was in possession of all the facts and was even then on the point of starting for Europe to see her. Of course, his letter had failed to reach her in time. There was quite a tragic scene in the seclusion of that remote little office, during which Mr. Carroll wiped his eyes and blew his nose more than once, after which he took it upon himself to dispatch a messenger to Sara with the word that he and Miss Castleton would present themselves within half an hour after his note had been delivered.

The meeting between Sara and Hetty was affecting. Almost immediately the former began to show the most singular signs of improvement. She laughed and cried and joyously announced to the protesting nurse that she was feeling quite well again! And, in truth, she got up from the couch on which she reclined and insisted on being dressed for dinner.

In another room the amazed nurse was frantically appealing to Mr. Carroll to let her send for the doctor, only to be confounded by his urbane announcement that Mrs. Wrاندall was as "right as a string" and, please God, she wouldn't need the services of doctor or nurse again for years to come. Then he asked the nurse if she had ever heard of a disease called "nostalgia."

She said she had heard of "homesickness."

"Well, that's what ailed Mrs. Wrاندall," he said. "Miss Castleton is the cure."

Booth came the next morning. Even as she lay passive in his arms, Hetty denied him. Her arms were around his neck as she miserably whispered that she could not, would not be his wife, notwithstanding her radiant mood and his readiness to accept her as she was. She was obstinate, lovably, tenderly obstinate. He would have despaired but for Sara, to whom he afterwards appealed.

"Wait," was all that Sara had said, but he took heart. He was beginning to look upon her as a sorceress. A week ago he had felt sorry for her; his heart had been touched by her transparent misery. Today he saw her in another light altogether; as the determined, resourceful, calculating woman who, having failed to attain a certain end, was now intensely keenly interested in the development of another of a totally different nature. He could not feel sorry for her today.

Hetty deliberately laid placed herself in their hands, withdrawing from the conference shortly before Vivian's arrival to give herself over to gloomy conjectures as to the future, not only for herself, but for the man she loved and the woman who worshipped with something of the fidelity of a beaten dog.

At a later conference participated in by Sara, Booth and Mr. Carroll, the old lawyer spoke plainly.

"Now are you both willing to give serious consideration to the plan I propose? Take time to think it over. No harm will come to Miss Castleton. I am confident. There will be a nine days' sensation, but, after all, it is the best thing for everybody. You propose living abroad. Booth, so what are the odds if—"

"I can't live abroad unless Hetty reconsiders her decision to not marry me," said the young man dimly.

What Came Up.

An Englishman was driving around County Tipperary one warm day, when he came across a farmer setting potatoes. Thinking to have a joke with him, he began:

"Well, Pat, what are you planting?"

"Praties, sir," said Pat.

"Do you think potatoes will come up?" asked the Englishman.

"Of course," said Pat.

"Why, I set onions last year in my garden, and carrots came up," said the Englishman.

"Oh," said Pat. "I set an acre of turnips last year in that field over there, and do you know what came up?"

"No," replied the Englishman.

"Mike Murphy's old black donkey, and ate them all," answered Pat.

Notes and Beams.

George Ade, over a cup of afternoon tea with a group of cynical bachelors at the Chicago Athletic club, said:

"Married men declare that their wives can't keep a secret, but these men themselves are just as bad."

"A married man buttonholed me in the hilliard room an hour ago and told me a frightful scandal."

"Don't let this go any further, George," he ended.

"No, certainly not," said L. "But how did you happen to hear it?"

"Oh, the wife, of course," he answered. "She's just like all women—can't keep a secret."

CHAPTER XX.

Sara Wrاندall's Decision.

"Now, you see what I mean, Brandon, when I insist that it would be a

"I think she knows all that, Brandon. As I said before, wait! And now, Mr. Carroll, I have this to say to your suggestion: I for one am relentlessly opposed to the plan you advocate. There is no occasion for this matter to go to the public. A trial, you say, would be a mere formality. I am not so sure of that. Why put poor Hetty's head in the lion's mouth at this late stage, after I have protected her so carefully all these months? Why, take the risk? We know she is innocent. Isn't it enough that we acquit her in our hearts? No, I cannot consent, and I hold both of you to your promises."

"There is nothing more I can say, my dear Sara," said Carroll, shaking his head gloomily, "except to urge you to think it over very seriously. Remember, it may mean a great deal to her—and to our eager young friend here. Years from now, like a bolt from the sky, the truth may come out in some way. Think of what it would mean then."

Sara regarded him steadily. "There are but four people who know the truth," she said slowly. "It isn't likely that Hetty or Brandon will tell the story. Professional honor forbids your doing so. That leaves me as the sole peril. If that what you would imply, my dear friend?"

"Not at all," he cried hastily, "not at all."

"That's all Tommy-rot, Sara," cried Booth earnestly. "We just couldn't have anything to fear from you."

With curious inconsistency, she shook her head and remarked: "Of course, you never could be quite easy in your minds. There would always be the feeling of unrest. Am I to be trusted, after all? I have proved myself to be a vindictive schemer. What assurance can you and Hetty have that I will not turn against one or the other of you some time and crush you to satisfy a personal grievance? How do you know, Brandon, that I am not so love with you at this very—"

"Good heavens, Sara!" he cried, again.

"At this very moment?" she continued. "It would not be so very strange, would it? I am very human. The power to love is not denied me. Oh, I am merely philosophizing. Don't look so serious. We will suppose that I continued

PRESIDENT WILSON KILLED THE WOMAN SUFFRAGE BILL

Washington.—The woman's suffrage resolution is doomed. Not only will it fail in the House Rules Committee, but if it should come to a vote in the House it will be defeated there.

President Wilson's recent announcement of his position against it has gone far toward sealing its fate in the House. Nearly all of the Democrats have been polled, and against the resolution.

Democrats generally are adhering to what they now understand to be party principle in their opposition to the resolution, taking the position that the question of suffrage is one to be decided by the voters themselves in the different states.

THIS IS THE AGE OF GOOD SCHOOLS, DOVER TAXPAYERS.

The voters in the Dover school district will have to take a lesson in "Community Building." They have the key note sounded when they tax themselves to put in a sanitary condition the school house and outbuildings.

They will have two outhouses built after the plan of the State Board of Health.

Read what the Bulletin on Sanitary Privy of the State Board has to say about the "Preventable Diseases."

One only great tax is ignorance.

People would not cripple the future of their children if they could come together oftener and discuss the questions of the day that confront us. And where better can this be done than in a clean up-to-date school house where the parents and teachers can counsel together?

Make the school comfortable and attractive and with well trained teachers and the problem of "keeping up attendance" is solved.

A school tax has never failed in Mason County and we predict that the Dover district tax will carry by an overwhelming majority.

One cannot believe that some of the wealthy and leading citizens of the Dover school district are opposed to a 15-cent special tax to build two sanitary toilets, when there are absolutely none now for the children's use.

Can any sane person be so selfish and prejudiced, if not ignorant?

Think of it, when these very men are nearly all rich, in land and money, if not in principle and high ideals.

or self-protection if from no other motive this tax should be voted.

What if an epidemic should be caused by the unclean conditions now existing around the Dover school building?

What if one little child's life should pay the penalty for this narrow-mindedness? Think of these things Mr. Taxpayer, and also think that if the Dover district refuses to vote this little special tax that those opposing it will be held up to the ridicule of the entire State of Kentucky, where "Education and Sanitation" are transforming communities once reeking with filth and steeped in ignorance, into beautiful gardens and illuminated by the great archlight of education.

Away with selfishness; away with ignorance and illiteracy!

Good people of the Dover school district, the richest 3-mile square agricultural section on earth, you must see the light—the light of religious education that makes your daily pathway of life one sweet journey of peace, plenty and love for your neighbor, and—most all of this thoughtful love must be for the little children—the men and women of tomorrow.

Vote for the tax!

MORE DEMOCRATIC PROSPERITY.

President Wilson's fulsome promises of continued prosperity have been kept so well that the price of meat in New York has been advanced 3 cents a pound and threatens to go higher.

Woodie is a promising young gent.

KERMIT & PROFESSION.

Some day when we get up in the morning feeling so out of sorts that we don't care whether we incur the enmity of the Progressive Party or not we are going to inquire in our innocent way, as if we supposed of course he had one, what Kermit's regular business is. —Ohio State Journal.

SYMPATHY FOR MARSANS.

One of the most pitiable objects—one of the most depressing cases—we have lamped in a long time was Armando Marsans. Although his pay was still going on he had been enjoined from playing ball in St. Louis with the temperature at 97-3-4. It is a tough life anyway you take it. —Chicago Post.

HIGHER STANDARD FOR LAWYERS.

The State Bar Association went on record Friday in favor of higher standards for legal education and for admission to the bar. The resolution adopted is hardly as strong as it should be, but the association has committed itself to reform along this line and its action is encouraging.

Judge LaFollette and Lieut. Gov. McDermott told the association why it was desirable that better standards should prevail. The examinations of applicants for admission to the bar in many instances are not thorough; a man of average intellect may easily become a full-fledged lawyer; some of the Circuit Judges have never been known to fail an applicant; the State occupies an unenviable attitude as "a dumping ground for unworthy applicants from other States and undesirable students from Standardized States who use Kentucky as an avenue to reach membership in the profession in their own States."

It is a matter of common knowledge that the legal profession has in its ranks a very large number of alleged lawyers who are no credit to it. The State outlaws quack doctors and has elevated the standard of the medical profession; it requires certain qualifications of its teachers, and the teacher who falls short of them must seek other means of livelihood. A man who would be a pharmacist must demonstrate his competency before a board which knows its business and takes the time to attend to it. In various other ways more is being required of those who set themselves up as mentors or servitors to the public. But the lawyer gets his license in the same old way. The way is all right if the would-be lawyer is a capable, conscientious man, but it is all wrong when he happens to be the reverse.

There ought to be a State examining board for lawyers so that examinations would be neither a formality nor a farce. Obviously that is what many of them are under the present method. —Courier Journal.

FOOLISH PHILOSOPHY.

It's a corking good idea to bottle up your wrath. When trouble goes to sleep, throw away the alarm clock.

It's a pity that we can't insure our pipe dreams before they go up in smoke.

If a woman admits that she snores you can safely believe anything she says.

At the age of 40 a man is apt to feel under everlasting obligations to the chap who married the girl he was spooning on at the age of 20.

QUITE SO!

Judge—"What is your occupation, my man?"
 Prisoner—"I am a truck-driver, your honor."
 Judge—"You mean you are the driver of horses attached thereto?"
 Prisoner—"Yes, sir."
 Judge—"You are charged with hitting this man on the face. Did you do it?"
 Prisoner—"Certainly not!"
 Judge—"What did you do, then?"
 Prisoner—"I hit him on the nasal organ attached thereto!"

PHELON, IN THE TIMES-STAR SIZES UP THE BASE BALL SITUATION.

The Federal League and the International League will combine into one Class AA association, if negotiations now being conducted are successfully completed. War will cease and every effort made to obliterate it from the memory of the fans. The cities now suffering from an overplus of base ball will be relieved from their burdens, and the nightmare of the Federal League invasion will become only a painful recollection. Such, according to fairly accurate "inside wires," are the present plans and projects of the Federal chieftains—that is, of those Federal chieftains who possess anything except concrete from the neck up. While the major league magnates are said to be sternly opposed to any such dealings, or to permitting the Federals to thus work their way inside the fences of organized ball, it is evident that the International officials have come to the point where the major leagues will be given a whole lot of respect and attention, NOT.

One organization has suffered from war—from its own ambitions and its own idiotic attempts to hull the market. Another organization has suffered from loyalty to organized ball. The Federals can not go much farther fighting AGAINST the major league. The International league can not go much farther fighting FOR the major leagues. By pooling clubs, players, plants and money, a new, high-class and prosperous organization could be formed. It is said that if such consolidation takes place the magnates and managers of the Federal league who have made themselves contemptible will be eliminated and eliminated to stay that way. The Federal magnates who have played the game squarely could abandon their major league chimera, and merge with the AA people, bringing a return of base ball prosperity.

DO IT NOW

Maysville People Should Not Wait Until It Is Too Late.

The appalling death rate from kidney disease is due largely to the fact that the little kidney troubles are usually neglected until they become serious. The slight symptoms often give place to chronic disorders and the sufferer may slip gradually into some serious form of kidney complaint.

If you suffer from backache, head aches, dizzy spells, if the kidney secretions are irregular of passage and an unnatural in appearance, do not delay. Help the kidneys at once.

Doan's Kidney Pills are especially for kidney disorders—they act where others fail. Over one hundred thousand people have recommended them. Here's a case at home:

Mrs. S. Neal, 497 W. Second St., Maysville, Ky., says: "One of my family had a great deal of trouble from his back and kidneys. Doan's Kidney Pills made him better and he always praises them."

Mrs. Neal is only one of many Maysville people who have gratefully endorsed Doan's Kidney Pills. If your back aches—if your kidneys bother you, don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—ask distinctly for Doan's Kidney Pills, the same that Mrs. Neal recommends—the remedy backed by home testimony. 50c all stores. A. F. THAVIU'S FAMOUS BAND AND ORCHESTRA

Versatility is one of the great features of the A. F. Thaviu, who is coming to the Blue Grass Fair at Lexington, August 3 to 8, with his famous band and orchestra. This young Russian band leader has won an enviable place in modern music with his vigorous methods and his tasteful programs. Not only is he known in amusement parks, such as White City in Chicago, where he has played for the past five seasons, but at state fairs, such as Texas, and at Chautauqua throughout the length and breadth of the land. He has found favor with music lovers in all walks of life, and has gained fame in every quarter of the country.

Combined with his power as a conductor, he is a cornetist of great ability and his playing has been praised in the highest terms by some of the best critics in the country, notably by William L. Hubbard, the great musical critic of the Chicago Tribune. As a program maker, Mr. Thaviu is without a peer or a rival. He seems instinctively to know what the people want and he can vary his program to suit any gathering, from the frivolous crowds at summer parks who seek nothing but the racy and lighter melodies, to the more sedate and serious gatherings in Chautauqua who demand music of a higher grade and style.

He has taken a great hold on the public fancy, and his return engagements are always welcomed with much enthusiasm. He is young, vigorous and tactful. He is a musician who obtains the most vivid effects without recourse to buffoonery or chicanery. He knows music and knows his audience. He has one of the very best organizations on the road this season and not only carries a band that is perfect in every detail but also provides an opera company that offers grand opera in the best taste and in the best manner. Without a doubt the presence of Thaviu in Lexington will be a rare treat to all classes, from the student for classics, to those who are fond of the lighter popular tunes of the day.

The Government will make no decision as to criminal prosecution against the men behind the New Haven railroad until the dissolution of the road has been accomplished.

FOUR BILLION FISH

Propagated and Distributed by the Government During Year.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 17.—Secretary of Commerce Richard L. James has informed by the Commissioner of Fisheries that advance reports received from the fish cultural stations of the Bureau of Fisheries in all parts of the country indicate that during the fiscal year, which closed June 30, 1914, the number of food and game fishes propagated and distributed by the bureau was considerably in excess of that of any previous year. The output was approximately 4,000,000,000, of which 183,000,000 represented the migratory food fishes of the Atlantic Coast streams, 1,000,000,000 the commercial fishes of the Great Lakes, 2,250,000,000 the important food fishes of the North Atlantic Coast, over 200,000,000 the salmon of the Pacific coast, and the remainder the fishes of the minor interior waters.

The dry weather has favored only one crop in this county and that is the turkey crop. Young turkeys always thrive in dry weather and there is a chance of an over production this fall.

MORE THAN 100 KILLED.

Columbus, Ohio.—Four hundred and one persons were killed by steam and electric railways in Ohio during the first six months of the present year, according to reports compiled by the State Utilities Commission. Of these 237 were trespassers, 97 employees on duty, 10 employees of duty, 14 passengers on highways and 7 passengers on trains. The month of June showed 81 fatal accidents, more than any month of the year. While steam railways were responsible for 265 deaths, electric lines were responsible for only 36.

A woman lives and learns. After she has been married a couple of years she stops buying neckties for her husband.

STUDY "SAFETY FIRST."

That "safety first" is to be the motto of the various railroads in the future is shown by the various railway magazines now being issued. The last issue of the Employees' Magazine of the Chesapeake & Ohio Railroad is a strong example.

Careful reading of this, in which studies and examples are displayed, will prove a substantial part of the education of any man in the operating department of any road.

WHAT THE CONSUMER PAID FOR THOSE BEANS.

(Farm and Fireside.)
"Ezra Tuttle is a long Island farmer. He followed to market a bushel of beans which brought him 30 cents a bushel, and found that the consumer paid $1.50 for them. The Long Island farmers have decided to maintain a bureau of markets for the purpose of getting some, at least, of this difference between $1.50 and 30 cents. Ezra Tuttle is at the head of the movement."

A Short Sermon.
I herewith discourse on
The subject of sorrow:
The troubles that kill are
The troubles we borrow! —Judge.

There is one flourishing industry these days—the proverbial.

Most women are curious, but the most curious thing in the world is one who isn't.

No man likes to be counted out; but, on the other hand, no man likes to be taken in.

FOURTEEN STORY JAIL BUILDING.

New York will have the highest jail building so far erected if present plans are carried out. It will be built in 13th street near Sixth avenue, will be 14 stories tall and will cost about $1,500,000. It is planned chiefly for the care of woman prisoners.

PROGRESSIVE PENELOPE.

Larry—Did I understand you to say Perceval and Penelope are estranged?
Laura—Yes.

Larry—But I saw her buying a ham-mock today.

Laura—Little schemer. I'll just wager she is planning a get-together meeting.—Judge.

THE MODERN SUITOR.

Oh, I shall not search for beauty,
Nor for sympathetic eyes,
Nor for what they call a "cutie."
Nor for winners—otherwise—
For I'm simple—oh, so simple!
And it matters not to me
If she have or not a dimple.
Love is blind—shall not see
But, I pray, ye gods escort me
(I am losing hope alone)
To a dame who can support me
In a style I've never known.
—Jane Burr in Judge.

APROPOS.

(Apropos of the present society appeared of the weaker sex, so called, with apologies to Rudyard Kipling, and most sincere apologies to the shade of Gan-gus Bin.)

The party frock she wore
Was nothing more before
And a little less than half of that behind;
For a bit of filmy lace
And some powder for her face
Was all the dance equipment she could find.
—John H. Burns in Judge.

PRETTY WEDDING AT LEXINGTON.

(Cathonia Democrat.)
WOODWARD WRIGHT—Miss Bertha Woodward, of fair, near Cathonia, and Mr. Charles F. Wright, of Mayville, were married in Lexington at noon, Tuesday, July 14, the Rev. Dr. John Barbour, of Mayville, officiating. Only a few relatives and other friends of the contracting parties were present among them Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Chauslor, of Millersburg, and Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Cole, of Blue Lick Springs, Mrs. Cole being a sister of the groom. Immediately after the ceremony a delicious luncheon was served at a hotel, after which the happy couple left for a wedding trip. They will return in about two weeks and reside in Mayville. The bride is one of Harrison's fairest daughters, a young woman of much charm of person and manner. She has been teaching in the county schools for several terms where her work has been of the highest order. The Mayville papers speak in glowing terms of Mr. Wright, who is one of the bookkeepers in the Bank of Mayville.

LEWIS COUNTY IS TO REAP HARVEST FROM ROAD BONDS.

(State Journal.)
While Lewis County may not be the first in Kentucky to participate in the State Road Bonds Fund, as several others have applied and will draw next year, it will be the first to draw in the large degree made possible by its recently voted bond issue of $150,000, and unlike the people of other counties, the inhabitants of Lewis will be enjoying good roads while paying for them.

The Act of 1914, levying a five cent tax to create a road fund limits the amount which any one county may draw from the State in any one year to 2 per cent, levy of the revenue from the five cent levy of that year, about $12,000. The State will put in dollar for dollar with the county to that amount. Lewis with its $150,000 will have prepared for it a systematic scheme of highway improvement on which the proceeds of its bond issue will be expended. Then each year the State will pay to the county $12,000 until it has paid Lewis $75,000, half the amount of the bond issue, and the county may use this money for a sinking fund to retire bonds as they mature or may use it for the further construction of highways. Commissioner of Roads R. C. Terrell said, however, that the money contributed by the State may be used only for the actual construction of highways and not for buying rights of way and other like expenditures connected with road building.

Mr. Terrell will send Assistant R. H. Reese to Lewis County within a few days to map out the various roads and render whatever assistance is necessary. Sept. Terrell is pleased with the interest which the people throughout the State are taking in the movement for better highways.

WE ARE READY FOR VOTE.

(Jacksonville (Fla.) State, July 3.)
(By Byrd Spillman Dewey, of West Palm Beach, author of "Brims," "The Blessed Isle," and a number of other charming stories.)

The observer is constantly reminded of the power of the vote. Each one with a vote to give or to withhold is held round with a magic importance that makes him a factor to be reckoned with in every question. The candidate, on whose back him, and will be made by his election, has a respect for the vote-wielder of which we daily and hourly see proofs.

Many of us women do not feel the need of this power, because we are surrounded by those who look after our interests, and who see that we are not imposed upon; or that we do not lack protection when any question arises which threatens us; or our interests. But, for the sake of those of our sisters who go out among strangers fighting alone and unprotected, hampered by laws framed by men who are unscrupulous in exploiting their helplessness, we are willing, even eager, to right cruel wrongs by taking upon ourselves the responsibility of the franchise.

Any human being who has the sense and the courage to administer a home and to bring into the world human beings and to train them for this life and for eternity, has surely the sense and the nerve to take hold and help father, brothers and sons to attend to the public housekeeping.

Some alarmists say we shall neglect the home if we take the vote; but have we ever yet attempted anything we couldn't do? Many mothers have to be business women, have to run farms, or have to do other rough work which nature seems to have intended for masculine strength and still they have found time to keep the little garments mended—to see that there is wholesome food—plenty always ready for hungry little mouths—to find time to make home the happy center of life, and to train the budding minds and morals, bringing up all-around good young citizens to take their places in the game of life.

The vote does not interfere with a man's other business; then, why should it be an interruption to the life of the house-mother, who has always shown herself to be equal to any emergency?

In those countries and States where women now have the franchise, we know they have made good. First of all, they have looked to the welfare of the weak and the helpless. Children, unsheltered young people, invalids, abused animals—all the helpless little ones cared for—protected, both from the cruel greed of others and from the consequences of their own young foolishness.

It's up to the men to show their alertness in grasping the trend of things. Let them offer the franchise and let women accept, giving man the credit for showing both his good sense and his gallantry.

Surely he can trust an equal share in the government to those hands which in his first helplessness have pressed his tiny form against the bosom of comfort and tenderness, and will be his solace when that same bosom will be his dying pillow!

Mrs. Dewey is the daughter of the late Rev. J. E. Spillman, D. D., who was for many years the pastor of the Presbyterian Church of this place.

FRED GILBERT
the celebrated trapshooter
"The coolest, most fragrant, most pleasant tobacco in my experience—Tuxedo. Leads in mildness and purity."

Quick on the Trigger With a Snap-Shot Eye

THE crack trapshooter has to be a man with steady nerves and muscles absolutely under control—always ready, at the sudden jerk of a string to swing his gun into place and bring down his clay pigeon. This means trained, not to the minute, but to the split-second. He takes no chances with his nerves.

We present the names of some of these crack shots who smoke Tuxedo. They like to smoke; but they take no chances on a tobacco that might "throw them off."

Tuxedo

The Perfect Tobacco for Pipe and Cigarette

is purposely made to give you all the benefits of the highest grade smoke. It is made from the very finest tobacco Kentucky grows—ripe, mellow, sweet and mild old Burley, aged right up to perfection-day. Then treated by the original "Tuxedo Process," which takes out the sting, makes Tuxedo smoke cool and slow, and guarantees that it cannot bite your tongue.

Tuxedo has had many imitators; none has ever equalled it in sheer quality and smoking-value.

ERRORS COSTLY
 And Maysville Lost To Chillicothe Yesterday By the Score of 5 to 0.—
 Cubs Could Not Hit in Pinches.

The Babes made it three out of four yesterday by shutting out the Burley
 Cubs by the score of 1 to 0.

Southpaw Utrecht knocked on the mound and pitched a nice game, but errors at critical times, coupled with the rotten mumping of Kuhn, lost the game for the locals.

Gashorn of the Babes was touched up for eight hits, three of them for extra bases, but he was invincible with men on bases and kept his hits widely sent ored.

Chillicothe made their first run in the 1st when Corbin knocked one over Utrecht's head for a base and went to second on his bad peg to first and scored on Parmelee's triple.

The Babes made another tally in the sixth. With one down Nesser got a double, his first hit here during the present series. Eisel singled scoring Nes-ser. Houtz forced Eisel. Tallott singled.
 Friend grounded out.

Chillicothe made it unanimous in the eighth by securing three more runs.
 Shovlin doubled. Nesser was out at first. Eisel was safe on Dietrich's error. Shovlin scoring. Houtz fanned.

Fallbott, Friend and Gashorn singled.
 Eisel scoring. Corbin was safe when Chapman dropped Emery's throw. Tal-lott scoring. Parmelee forced Corbin.

In the last half of the ninth with Dietrich on first and one out the rain scoured in torrents and the game was called.

RIGHT OFF THE BAT.

El Sanford has been sold to the De Moines, Ia., club in the Western League and will report at once.

Maysville left last night for Charleston where they play three games, returning home Monday for three games with Huntington and four with Charleston.

Harvey Utrecht returned to Newport
 this morning to stay until Monday. Harvey had a big day at bat yesterday, getting a single and a triple out of three times at bat.

Johnny Shovlin of the Babes is undoubtedly the best second sacker in the league. He covers a world of ground and yesterday riddled several of the Cubs out of what seemed sure hits.

In sixteen times at bat during the present series old man Nesser made just one hit which will give him a batting average of .063 for the four games—and he's supposed to be the hardest hitter in the league, too.

In the series just closed with Chillicothe, Maysville has made only three runs, while the Babes made eleven. It is little wonder that Maysville lost the majority of the games with such small scores. Chillicothe now has the best bunch of hitters in the league and they should easily forge to the front unless some serious accident befalls some of their star players.

William Jennings Bryan has declared

CARRANZA TIPPED FOR PRESI-DENT OF MEXICO.

Washington, July 16.—Francisco Car-rajal, successor to General Huerta as Provisional President of Mexico, today advised the United States Government informally that he intended to retire in favor of General Carranza, the Constitutionalist chief. Senor Carrajal wishes only that a general amnesty be declared and protection given to the property of those who have been opposed to the Constitutionalists.

Get a Lot More Than
Your Money's Worth

You always do in a Hart Schaffner &
 Marx suit, but right now there's still a bigger chance to profit. We've made these good clothes still a greater value for you by reducing the price on all Spring Goods.

Now is the time for you to buy a Straw Hat. Big reductions on them now.
 And when considering buying shoes you must not forget that our Crossetts and Stetsons are the best in town.

MAYBE it is an old fashioned idea this notion of putting all the value possible into the car itself—and as little as possible
 into overhead expense—

But it has given the Paige a positively dominant position among cars of medium price—

Ample capital for operating purposes—no bonded indebtedness—
 no excessive capitalization—no heavy overhead of any kind to be paid for.

Just a full dollar of car value for every dollar of the selling price.

Is it any wonder that the Paige is going to be oversold again this year in spite of increased production?
